EUROPEAN COMMISSION CONFERENCE ON RADICALISATION

and

EUOPRIS RADICALIZATION IN PRISON WORKSHOP

Brussels, 27th and 28th February, 2018

The end of February, 2018, is a period of intense activity in Brussels, for what concerns deradicalisation engagement in the European framework. In fact, the two events we are talking about are strictly connected and coordinated.

The Conference, promoted by the EU Commission on Feb. 27th, is also supported by Europris and CEP organizations, and its goal is to offer a benchmark on the status of the several projects in the area of radicalisation, which are co-funded by the Commission.

Attention is focused on Criminal Justice policies, including programs and activities, enhanced in Prison and Probation systems, in order to control and prevent eventual radicalisation processes in inmates, and promote – on the other side – deradicalisation and disengagement. In this framework, RASMORAD P&P is representative, as it is a project designed to produce and share a validated risk assessment tool.

Forthcoming events:

Brussels

On the following day, February 28th

a one day close door workshop, specifically organized by Europris takes place. Prison professionals from several European countries, and experts in radicalisation processes, are invited to share presentations, describing experiences and approaches in issues connected with the main subject of radicalisation in prisons sets. Discussions will follow, between speakers and participants.

Different sessions are foreseen in the morning and in the afternoon, and the specific topics are the following:

- Separation or dispersement: how to allocate radicalized prisoners.
- Balancing legal requirements, prison regime and security issues.
- Multi-agency cooperation and sharin of data.
- Reintegration challenges for foreign fighters and returnees.

Representatives for RASMORAD (and for the new TRInTRAINING EU co-financed project, recently started with a kick-off Meeting in Rome), are participating both to the Conference and to the Workshop.
